Certificate IV in Access Consulting Melbourne, Sydney and Fremantle 2012

Access to Premises – it's not as simple as BCA

Don't be fooled into thinking that if you comply with the BCA you comply with the requirements of the Disability Access to Premises - Buildings Standards and the Disability Discrimination Act, regarding access to buildings.

The BCA is only part of the picture and the Access to Premises Standards are just the start of a process to ensure equitable, dignified access is provided for everyone. It is critical that you know all the relevant legislation and requirements and how to apply them in the most practical and effective way. IATA can assist you to understand all access requirements for premises through our comprehensive training programs.

Enrolments for 2012 Courses Now Open

IATA is delivering the nationally recognised qualification in Access to the Built Environment, the Certificate IV in Access Consulting in 2012 in Melbourne, Sydney, and Fremantle (WA).

Who should attend?

The course will be of enormous benefit to people and organisations with responsibility to improve access to buildings, facilities, parks, streetscapes, playgrounds and open spaces. This includes government staff, building certifiers, architects, building designers, asset managers, occupational therapists, educational institutions, hospitals and other organisations.

What you will learn?

The course includes twenty Units of Competency required for qualification as an Access Consultant. These include:

- Applying building control legislation to assess buildings for access
- Conducting building, streetscape, playground and outdoor recreation area access audits
- Facilitating the development of Disability Action Plans
- Reading, Interpreting and Assessing Plans
- Preparing Access Reports

What students have said about IATA courses

'The presenters are vivacious and passionate, and provide anecdotal examples reflecting decades of experience in the field (something that cannot be learnt from a text book). A bevy of guest speakers do the same, imparting expert advice in an interesting manner' Peter Farras – Architect Perth

'The variety of expertise gave everyone the opportunity to discuss the content with practising consultants,...(and) .. an opportunity to obtain an extensive knowledge and understanding of access issues' Barry Magnus – Building Certifier, Tasmania

'I have found the course 'inspiring' - a great opportunity to learn from experienced professionals from diverse industry sectors how to translate acquired knowledge into practical outcomes'. Michele Fletcher – Community Development Officer WA
